

Freedom for Youth Ministrie s

The ministry operates from a facility called the "Freedom Center," where youth can find a safe refuge to learn about God's love for them, develop goals and learn work skills.

The ministries' emphasis is on providing opportunities for volunteers from the local churches to serve as role models, through direct one-on-one relationships. Christ is using His followers to bring people to Him so He can truly set the captives free!

The ministry operates from a facility called the "Freedom Center," where youth can find a safe refuge to learn about God's love for them, develop goals and learn work skills.

The ministries' emphasis is on providing opportunities for volunteers from the local churches to serve as role models, through direct one-on-one relationships. Christ is using His followers to bring people to Him so He can truly set the captives free!

The Captives

Homeless teens walk the streets of Des Moines struggling to survive, looking for money and a way to numb the pain of their past. Many have left broken families that left scars from neglect, abuse, drugs and violence. Having no way to cope with the hopelessness and absence of love in their life, the cycle of poverty, crime, incarceration, broken relationships and substance abuse continues from one generation to the next.

God brings Freedom

Through the efforts of Freedom for Youth Ministries, the lost youth hear the Gospel of Jesus Christ and begin to understand that God loves them and has a plan for their life. No longer do they have to face their problems alone. Volunteers come along side them for encouragement, role modeling and to experience the love they have been missing in their lives. Youth enrolled in the Freedom program develop and implement a plan for education, employment, housing and life skills.

Jesus set the captives free

As Isaiah prophesized, Jesus came to "bind up the brokenhearted and to proclaim freedom for the captives." (Isaiah 61:1). Freedom for Youth Ministries' mission is to offer the love of Jesus Christ to at-risk and homeless teens in Des Moines' inner city, to empower them to discover their God-given purpose in life and break the bondage of poverty, crime and substance abuse.

Homeless teens walk the streets of Des Moines struggling to survive, looking for money and a way to numb the pain of their past. Many have left broken families that left scars from neglect, abuse, drugs and violence. Having no way to cope with the hopelessness and absence of love in their life, the cycle of poverty, crime, incarceration, broken relationships and substance abuse continues from one generation to the next.

Through the efforts of Freedom for Youth Ministries, the lost youth hear the Gospel of Jesus Christ and begin to understand that God loves them and has a plan for their life. No longer do they have to face their problems alone. Volunteers come along side them for encouragement, role modeling and to experience the love they have been missing in their lives. Youth enrolled in the Freedom program develop and implement a plan for education, employment, housing and life skills.

Jesus set the captives free

As Isaiah prophesized, Jesus came to "bind up the brokenhearted and to proclaim freedom for the captives." (Isaiah 61:1). Freedom for Youth Ministries' mission is to offer the love of Jesus Christ to at-risk and homeless

Having no way to cope with the hopelessness and absence of love in their life, the cycle of poverty, crime, incarceration, broken relationships and substance abuse continues from one generation to the next.

teens in Des Moines’ inner city, to empower them to discover their God-given purpose in life and break the bondage of poverty, crime and substance abuse.

Homeless teens walk the streets of Des Moines struggling to survive, looking for money and a way to numb the pain of their past. Many have left broken families that left scars from neglect, abuse, drugs and violence. Having no way to cope with the hopelessness and absence of love in their life, the cycle of poverty, crime, incarceration, broken relationships and substance abuse continues from one generation to the next.

Through the efforts of Freedom for Youth Ministries, the lost youth hear the Gospel of Jesus Christ and begin to understand that God loves them and has a plan for their life. No longer do they have to face their problems alone. Volunteers come along side them for encouragement, role modeling and to experience the love they have been missing in their lives. Youth enrolled in the Freedom program develop and implement a plan for education, employment, housing and life skills.

God brings Freedom

“bind up the brokenhearted and to proclaim freedom for the captives.”

Through the efforts of Freedom for Youth Ministries, the lost youth hear the Gospel of Jesus Christ and begin to understand that God loves them and has a plan for their life. No longer do they have to face their problems alone. Volunteers come along side them for encouragement, role modeling and to experience the love they have been missing in their lives. Youth enrolled in the Freedom program develop and implement a plan for education, employment, housing and life skills.

Jesus set the captives free

As Isaiah prophesized, Jesus came to “bind up the brokenhearted and to proclaim freedom for the captives.” (Isaiah 61:1). Freedom for Youth Ministries’ mission is to offer the love of Jesus Christ to at-risk and homeless teens in Des Moines’ inner city, to empower them to discover their God-given purpose in life and break the bondage of poverty, crime and substance abuse.

Homeless teens walk the streets of Des Moines struggling to survive, looking for money and a way to numb the pain of their past. Many have left broken families that left scars from neglect, abuse, drugs and violence. Having no way to cope with the hopelessness and absence of love in their life, the cycle of poverty, crime, incarceration, broken relationships and substance abuse continues from one generation to the next.

Through the efforts of Freedom for Youth Ministries, the lost youth hear the Gospel of Jesus Christ and begin to understand that God loves them and has a plan for their life. No longer do they have to face their problems alone. Volunteers come along side them for encouragement, role modeling and to experience the love they have been missing in their lives. Youth enrolled in the Freedom program develop and implement a plan for education, employment, housing and life skills.

Volunteers come along side them for encouragement, role modeling and to experience the love they have been missing.